Richard's Reflections

Watch What You Say

Immense pain can be caused by passing on hurtful remarks. Whether or not the intent to do harm is present, the result is likely to be the same.

In a commentary on an event in the life of Abraham, Jewish rabbis pointed out that God himself refused to pass along potentially hurtful words from another person.

When three strangers visited the camp of Abraham and Sarah, they promised the couple a child within a year. Sarah heard their words and laughed to herself: "After I am worn out and my husband is old, will I now have this pleasure?" (Genesis 18:12). The rabbis were struck by what the Lord did not say in reporting the essence of Sarah's statement. He left out the comment about Abraham's advanced age — words that could have caused resentment to pass from a husband to his wife. He simply has Sarah asking, "Will I really have a child, now that I am old?" (Genesis 18:13).

Most people could benefit from the Four-Way Test of the Rotary Club: Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build goodwill and better friendships? Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

If God himself was kind enough to leave some things left unsaid in his report of Sarah's shocked reaction to Abraham, perhaps we should be more thoughtful with our words. "The tongue is a fire, a world of evil among the part of the body. It corrupts the whole person . . ." (James 3:6).

Eben's Essentials

Do we really believe in the reported miracles of the Bible? The puzzle is with the whole possibility of miracles. Once we assume the existence and character of God, miracles are no longer a problem. By his very nature, God is supernatural. So, the question actually is, does an all-powerful God, who controls the universe, exist? If so, He transcends the natural law of which He is the author.

You see, philosopher David Hume and others have defined a miracle as a violation of natural law. However, for all practical purposes, this position defies natural law. God is made a prisoner of natural law and ceases to be God. In our scientific age, it is common to personify science and natural law. This view is known as "Naturalism" and ignores the fact that these laws are simply the impersonal results of observation. God creates, and science observes and describes what we call the laws of nature. God has the innate right and power to intervene to accomplish purposes He might have.

Jesus, as God incarnate, is the one convincing and permanent miracle! Psalm 19:1 makes a powerful statement about God: "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the sky proclaims the work of His hands."
